 - the Chairman of OASP and Professor of Dynamic Tectonic Applied Geology & Natural Disaster Management at NKUA Efthymios Lekkas
- and
- the Chairman and CEO of PPC Group Georgios Stassis

The Venue

Domus Asteria Glyfada is a modern, comfortable venue that uniquely blends the natural landscape, the sea, and the elegance of contemporary hospitality. In that venue of high aesthetic quality by the sea, the guests will have the opportunity to meet, exchange views, and celebrate wind energy and its contribution to sustainable development having the sunset of the Saronic Gulf as a backdrop.

Stone-carving exhibition

Those who wish, will have the opportunity to visit the permanent stone-carving exhibition by the artist Niki Papatheochari, inspired by myths, fairy tales, nature, and the environment, hosted at the Cultural Center of Art & Letters, adjacent to the event venue.

In this new exhibition space, 70 works of stone carving and painting are presented for the first time, which—combined with poetry—create a multidimensional environment that redefines the way we perceive sculpture.

Reservations

Seats are available in order of priority according to demand (first come, first served). For details, please see the relevant guidelines.

AEOLOS Awards

This year is also the year for the AEOLOS awards. The awards are given every two years to personalities with a special contribution to Wind Energy in Greece.

They were established in 2005. Since 2019, the award is an olive tree made of brass, clay and stone that has been blown by the northeast wind of the Aegean. It combines the Greek element of the olive and the sea with the power of the wind.

More information about the award and the winners to date may be found on the ELETAEN website <https://eletaen.gr/vraveia-aiolos/>

Dear colleagues, friends,

We are doing our best, to organize a perfect event and celebrate together at the Global Wind Day Gala. Your participation supports and gives strength to ELETAEN. We hope to see you all in person.
